

Abstract

A flocculant, a manufacturing method therefor, and a flocculation method using the flocculant are provided such that a suspension of tap water treatment plant, sewage treatment plant, industrial drainage water or other service water or drainage water can be easily, safely, and quickly treated.

A flocculent made from a silicon colloidal solution for gelation through dilution and flocculating suspended matter in conjunction with the gelation.